A Coming Together

Community has been a word used many times in our four years at Northwest Catholic High School, and so has become a part of what we will remember most. Like a small community, we come together from varied areas, backgrounds, and age groups to form Northwest. The individuality each has, makes ours a special school. We bring different people together as strangers and leave with a feeling of closeness to Northwest and what it is all about. Working in unity is a special quality which is found in social activities as well as in the classroom. It is a feeling of being special in the "community" of Northwest that brings us together.

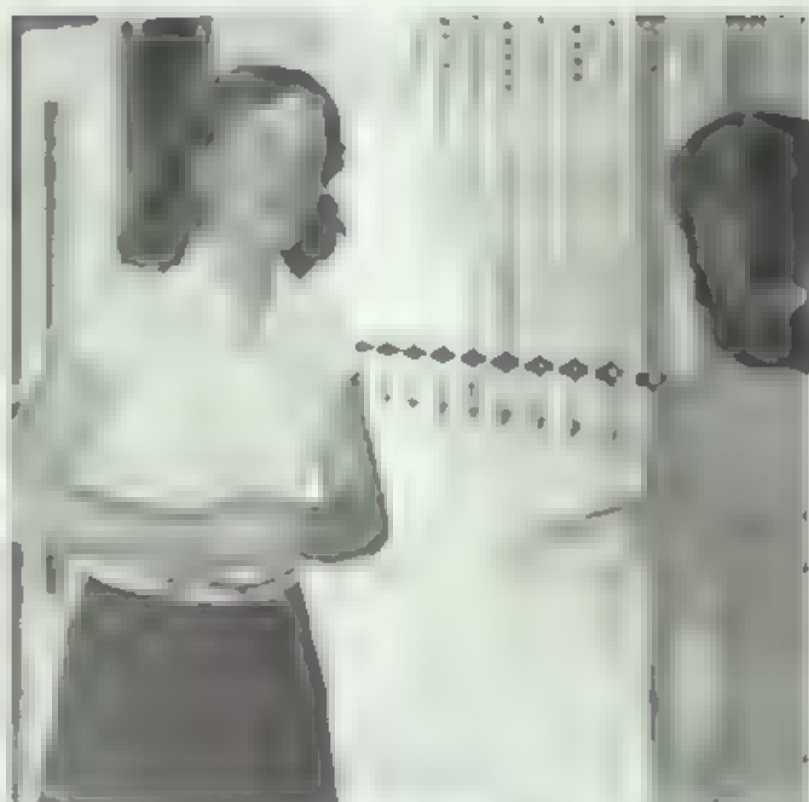

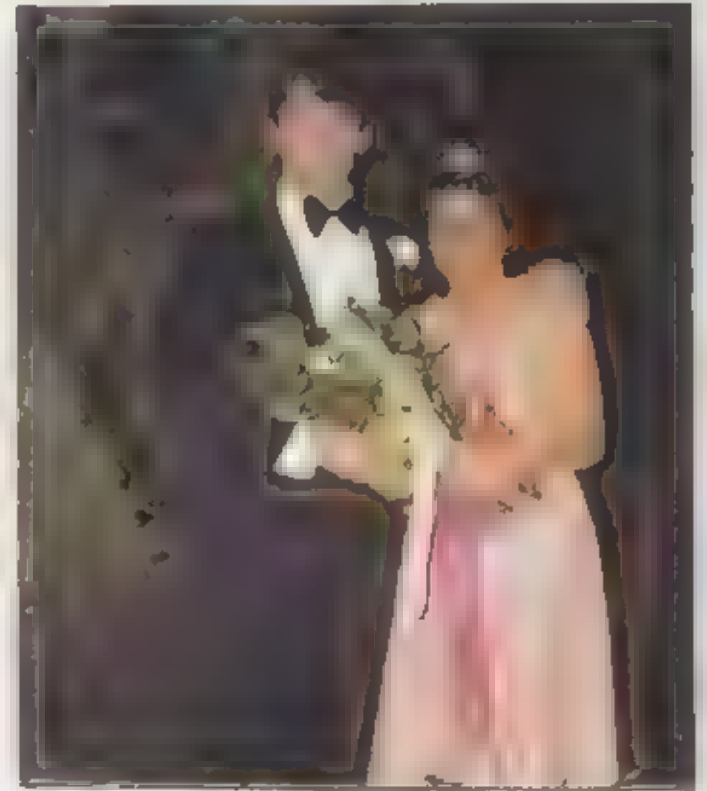

Sometimes we need only to know that we are important in our own way to others.

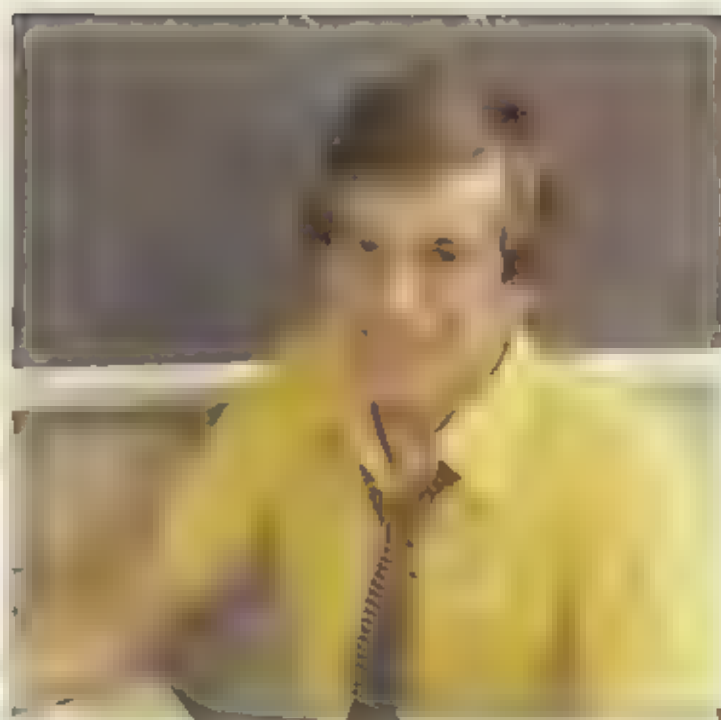

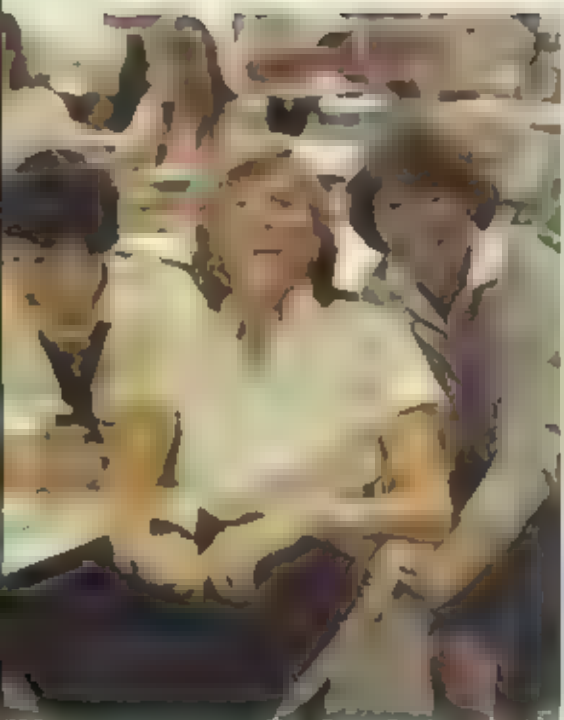

As we travel through life, we aim to find acceptance. Northwest Catholic is just one place along the way where we may come together with others as well as within ourselves.

Friends are a gift we give to ourselves. They are part of us as we grow and become a part of what we are.

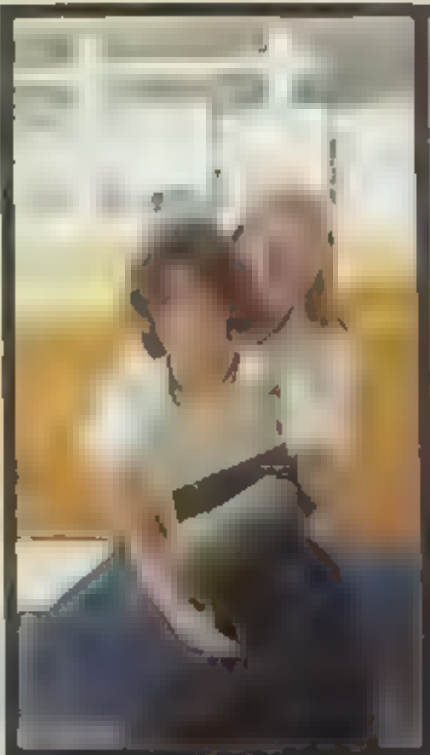

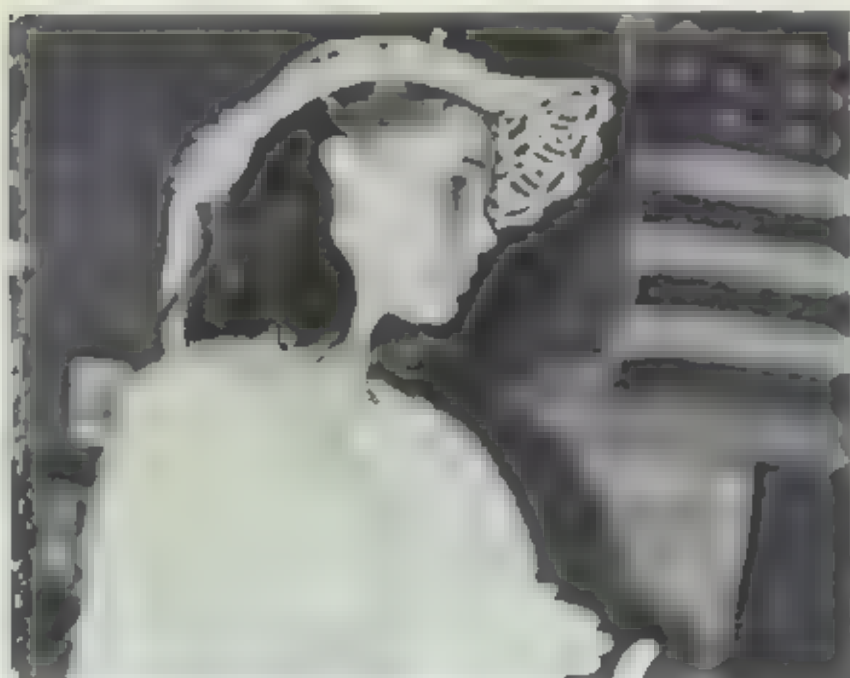

The spirit of Northwest Catholic follows its members even when school is not in session. There is a sense of caring in each activity that one undertakes. The student life is a very important part of the community effort; and, students who live in various towns can often be found together at social events. School activities and fellow classmates are not laid aside after school, but instead continue to be an active part of a student's social life.

You Can't Take It With You

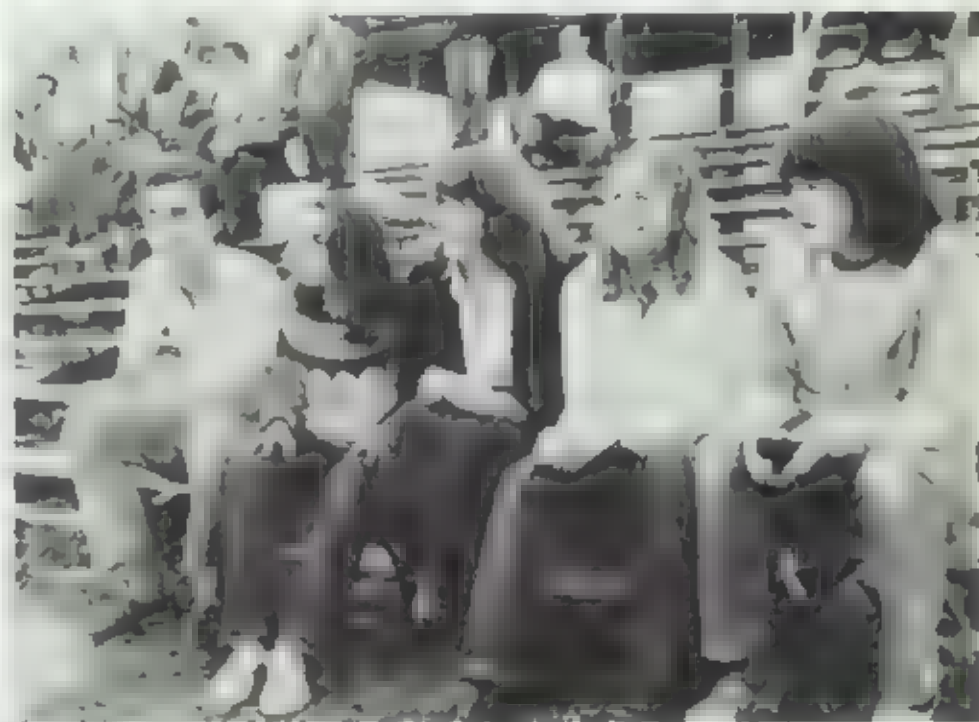

Diversity is the quality that makes the Northwest community most unique. Our students flock together from many different towns and backgrounds. When the duck family joined our community last spring, it gave us pause to reflect. Somehow, the feeling of community was strengthened as we watched mamma duck care for her young ones. Who will forget stopping class to watch as the ducks paraded in the courtyard, or when Sr. Mary Faith provided a swimming pool to serve as their own pond?

The ducks seemed to symbolize something we've always felt — Northwest is a pretty special place. As we too will fly away, we can't help but feel that we will be better adults for having shared in our diverse community during our four years here

Patio Privilege

The patio privilege allows seniors to spend their free time outdoors within a certain area. During spring and fall, lunchtime is often spent sitting on the benches eating and talking with friends. As the weather warms, many senior girls enjoy sunning themselves in order to get a tan

New York, New York

In December of 1980 a group of Northwest students took a field trip to New York City. The students earned this opportunity by selling 20 or more subscriptions during our annual Magazine Drive. After a show at Radio City the students were allowed to go out on their own. Many went window shopping, others tested various restaurants. The trip was a tremendous success and was enjoyed by all.

Spirit is greatly enhanced by the fact that Northwest has so much about which to get excited. The sports teams, especially basketball, were fantastic. Attendance at the games were spectacular, and enthusiasm ran high while team support was adamant. Everyone in the school came together both physically in the building, and mentally through their common bond

Dance the Night . . .

Dances are held in Northwest's cafeteria approximately every two months. The first one held is usually a dance exclusively for the Freshmen. This event, sponsored by Student Council, is designed to allow new students to become acquainted outside of a school atmosphere. A Junior Ring Dance is held late in the year to celebrate the unification of the class, during which the students receive their class rings. A Semi-Formal, Junior Prom, and Senior Prom are affairs greatly enjoyed by the participants.

Northwest Catholic is known for the traditional education it offers its students. Those who take advantage of the opportunities offered academically, benefit from the solid courses and genuine interest shown by teachers. Our purpose is to develop maximum academic skills and Christian values to prepare Northwest students for higher education and service to society. This objective is obvious to visitors who examine our school offerings and spiritual life. Honors courses, the Satellite Program, and college instruction at St. Joseph's College all add depth to an already solid in-school program.

Academics

Learning Experiences

Teachers constantly search for ingenious and inventive ways to test each student's knowledge. Some prefer the unannounced quizzes, both written and oral, while others prefer the dreaded weekly tests. Junior year is an eventful one for the Northwest Catholic students. That's the year where one is exposed to the required and most tedious typed research paper which requires footnotes, a bibliography, note cards, etc. The only fault with this system is that students have already been familiarized with this system by another teacher and as a result have already learned the procedure especially through their mistakes. Homework checks, lab reports, quizzes, class participation, analytical papers, demonstrations, essays, research papers and oral reports are all a part of the academic curriculum at Northwest which is designed to prepare each student for college and/or the working world

Speakers are often invited by teachers to explain to students the versatility of their fields or how to apply the knowledge to day-to-day experiences. The cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) course, offered during Mrs. Florio's Human Body Systems class, was a great success. The students and the teacher, Dr. Kwartin, both found it to be a very rewarding experience

Twice a year, during the third week of January and the middle of June, students at Northwest are made to go through a torture period commonly known as exams. Actually, exams begin for prospective students prior to acceptance. All of the secondary schools in the Archdiocese require an entrance exam upon which the school bases their choice

Members of the Junior and Senior classes are quite familiar with the major known by the ominous names of PSATs, SATs and Achievements. If Freshmen and Sophomores thought exams were a hassle, wait until they're faced with these

The hour and a half allotted to mid-year and final exam periods requires many hours of study and preparation for most students. Last minute cramming and reviewing are done in any space available — regardless of whether it would help or not

The spiritual department at Northwest had a daily part in each student's stay: The prayer, composed of a reading, intentions, and an occasional song, begins the day. Special events are commemorated with masses or a prayer service. Each class had a mass planned by and devoted to themselves. Upon the death of our Vice-Principal, prayer services were held in the chapel throughout the day. A mass for the Johnson family was held in the auditorium as the Month's Mind. When the hostages were returned to the U.S., a day was dedicated to give thanks for their well-being.

Ecclesiastes 3:1-8

The individuals at Northwest Catholic are as unique as the institution itself. As with a community atmosphere, people participate actively in various aspects of school life. The diverse backgrounds blend together to form a caring environment in which we work and play. Our school is not defined by the stereotypic images frequently associated with a Catholic high school. We incorporate many backgrounds, ethnic mixes, socio-economic groups, and geographic areas. We are better for it. The people of Northwest reflect a truer picture of the real world. Together we grow academically, intellectually, physically, socially and spiritually.

In Memoriam
MR. ROBERT C. JOHNSON

January 9, 1939 — November 22, 1980

When we came to school that Monday morning, November 24, time stood still. We had all been notified of the sudden and tragic death of Mr. Robert C. Johnson, our Assistant Principal and Dean of Students, the previous Saturday. He was only forty-one years old, a gentle and compassionate man, whose calm always made us feel stronger than we really were.

Mr. Johnson was the epitome of Northwest Catholic High School. He would have been tremendously proud of the support we showed for one another and for his family. Teachers, administrators, and students were not ashamed to cry or to express their extreme sorrow together. Many of us went to Chapel to pray, to prayer services in the auditorium, to the wake, and to the funeral. The tragedy of Mr. Johnson's death telescoped our community in a way that can not be denied. It brought into focus very clearly something that Mr. Johnson knew and loved so well. That life is very short, very fragile, that we are not in control of all that happens, and most importantly, that the quality of how we live is so much more significant than how long we live.

As Assistant Principal, Mr. Johnson brought calm to many a troubled situation. He was a quiet man, a gentle man, a Christian man. He knew how to listen without over-reacting, without getting angry. He listened with compassion and understanding. Each individual was appreciated for his or her own uniqueness. He knew when to listen and when to speak, when to wait and when to act.

Our lives have been enriched for having known Mr. Bob Johnson. One of his favorite expressions was by Von Goethe: "If you treat an individual as he is, he will stay as he is, but if you treat him as if he were what he ought to become and could become, he will become what he ought to be." Because Mr. Johnson has touched our lives, we will become a little more gentle, a little more compassionate, and a little more loving.

SR. MARY FAITH GLEELAN, Assistant Principal and Dean of Studies. During our stay at N.W.C., we all have come to know the administration in various ways. Whenever academic concerns arise, we find our way to Sr. Mary Faith. It is Sr. Mary Faith who listens to our complaints and patiently guides us in our educational goals. Without her guidance, students would have dropped courses and made decisions which they would have later regretted

SR. DORIS REGAN, Principal. The principal of Northwest for the past four years, Sr. Doris originally was a Latin teacher here. Now, she is the dominant figure in our community. As principal, she is able to channel the diverse make-up of our school toward the goal of a Christian community. With her guidance, our coming together becomes a reality

MR. CHARLES LARSON, Dean of Students. Appointed temporary Dean of Students after the tragic and sudden death of Mr. Johnson, Mr. Larson has assumed the duties with the same skill and care that he brings to his many successful basketball teams. Enforcing discipline brings Mr. Larson close to students, assisting them with care to work out problems because of his background in the guidance field

If she was left on a deserted island, she would want only a few vital items with her film--and camera equipment, paints and paper, a stereo, and, of course, her Jackson Browne albums

Miss Dennehy, "Mo" to her friends, has been teaching at Northwest for four years. She likes teaching in a Catholic high school because she is familiar with the system.

She was born in New Britain, Connecticut, went to Saint Thomas Aquinas High School, then to Villanova University in Pennsylvania. After a few teaching jobs, she came to Northwest to teach reading and English

She loves to teach and has found her years at Northwest to be "a real learning experience." She describes the Northwest community as a special, different one, where the people seem to really care. She also thinks that the kids here are concerned with their education, whether they admit to it or not.

Aside from teaching, though, she claims she has a creative desire to fill. She loves art — water colors and sketching — and her favorite color is blue. "I have a lot of yellow things in my room, but once I get them, I always wish they were blue." Her real interest, however, is in photography. It is an expression, she says, of lots of different things.

"What I'd really like, you know, what my life time goal is, is to be a photographer for Sports Illustrated." She laughed for a minute and then became serious, "But then I'd have to leave Northwest."

Mrs. Lorraine Florio, who teaches biology, is a unique individual. She majored in nursing at the Hartford Hospital School of Nursing; and, as a Registered Nurse, she taught the Nursing Arts. It was then that she was first exposed to students and the teaching profession in general. Although she had already received a B.S. in Nursing and Service, she returned to Central Connecticut State College to continue her education. She received her Master's of Education in the biological sciences and became a teacher.

Mrs. Florio has been teaching at Northwest for eight years now; and although she is married with three children, she still finds time to be active at our school. She has been appointed as moderator of the National Honor Society and she wishes to involve the members in service and leadership, explaining, "I strongly feel that the members of the Society should be leaders - not just scholastically, though. They should be applying their knowledge which qualified them to join the group in the first place."

Mrs. Florio is very happy with our school and the environment that surrounds us during our sometimes long schooldays. She says that she has missed only about 10% of the basketball games in the past eight years. She has had many positive experiences here and she enjoys the strong community which exists at Northwest. "Everyone works closely together and in unison," she commented, "But the real value of our community is our diversity."

5. FR. JOHN McHUGH, Spiritual Life Director: "Get a grip people!"

6 MR. DANIEL MARCUS, English Department: "Another big night for Mr. Mike."

7 MR. THOMAS MOORE, Social Studies Department: "Don't you know?"

8 MR. ED NOONAN, English Department, "That's a joke! Get it?"

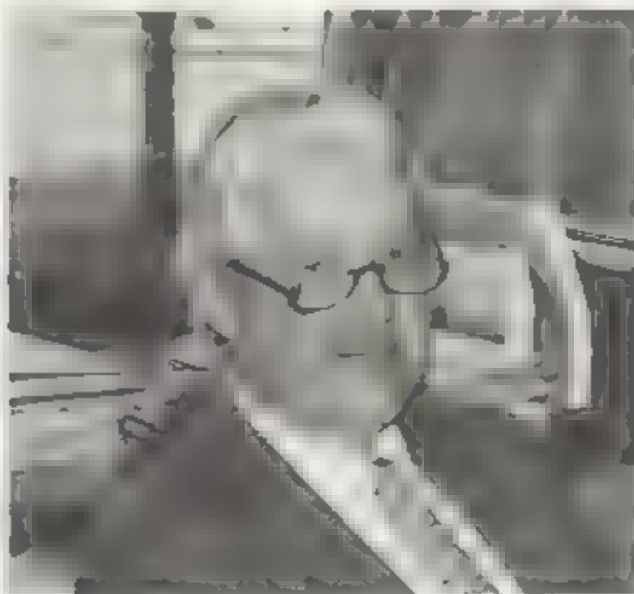

Miss Sue Maloney has joined the Northwest Catholic faculty this past year. She graduated from Central Connecticut State College in December, 1979. She received a B.S. in the educational major of Social Sciences. Although this has been her first year of teaching, she was not new to our school community.

Miss Maloney has been a cheerleading coach since the age of fifteen. She has been coaching our team for four years. "Teaching is not the same as coaching," she says. "When coaching, one is involved with the school, but only when practicing or participating in a game. Now, I am in contact with the students in a different way." In her opinion what has changed the most is that she must prepare for all her classes. When we asked her what she did in her spare time, she became very serious and reflective. Then she smiled, "Spare time? Who has spare time?" In reality, she coaches the cheerleading squad because she has fun while doing so. She enjoys coaching because she feels that kids don't have anyone who cares enough about them to spend the time needed. In a shocked tone of voice she commented, "I think I'm the only coach who sits on the bench with the cheerleaders." She is convinced that our girls have immense potential and she wants to make them use it to their fullest. She can relate to kids easily, and communication is so important.

Although young, she is able to gain respect from her students and also from the rest of the faculty. She feels that the staff has been very supportive and understanding. All in all, Miss Maloney is happy to be here and we're glad she is too.

2. MR. WALTER STOSUY, Physical Education Department Chairman: "Listen Up!"
3. MRS. KAREN SULLIVAN, Language Department: "We really should get back to Latin."
4. SR. PEGGY SWICKARD, Science Department: "So far, no one has made a single mistake."

Mr. Dan Marcus has found teaching to be a very rewarding career. He first began teaching high school English with the intention of moving on to the college level. "After teaching at Northwest for a few years," he commented, "I began to realize that not only did I love the subject of English, but also, I really enjoyed working with high school aged people — sometimes scholar and clown, child and adult, Esme and Seymour. He/she has enough sophistication to be an academic challenge but not enough to be locked into the self-importance generated by the college years."

To Mr. Marcus, the Northwest student has been special. He has chaperoned many overnight camping trips and ski trips during the past twelve years, and rarely has he been forced into a position of authority. He has always felt at "home" here and he hopes that he has made his students feel the same way.

If Mr. Marcus were to leave the field of teaching it would probably be to pursue a career in writing. He says that he would like to put to use the skills he has learned through the teaching of writing; "teaching is, after all, a career of learning."

There are a wide variety of activities offered at Northwest Catholic for all types of interests. The after school clubs and programs are an important part of the social life. Clubs provide memorable events and activities such as the production of "You Can't Take It With You" by the Dramatures, the Language clubs and their week of festivities, and the ski trip to New Hampshire. But clubs also show our social concern for others in the community through involvement. The Freshman contact group helps the Frosh gain an easy adjustment, the Tutoring Program provides needed help for inner city kids, the Social Action Committee helps to make Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter a little brighter for impoverished families. The students involved in extra-curricular and other activities are very committed and it is reflected in Northwest's spirit.

Organizations

Yearbook Staff

Moderator Mr. Deburro Editors Maria Scotti Christina Shea.

Each member of the yearbook staff is vitally important. The total dedication of every member is necessary in order that the book be completed with best possible quality. The amount of time spent putting a book together is incomprehensible until experienced first-hand. Not only is it necessary for staff members to have pictures taken, also page drafts must be made using certain guidelines, captions written, and titles created. Organizing page order and alphabetizing are necessary. Interviews are needed for faculty quotations and the business must sell a certain quota of patron and business ads in order to keep the cost of the book to a minimum.

Finally, the editors and moderator have the final decisions to make. The bulk of the work falls on these dedicated people when mistakes are made and it is necessary to do pages again. If a staff falls behind the editors and moderator must take up the slack.

All told, working on a yearbook staff can be rewarding, but the quality of the book depends on the willingness and co-operation of the staff to make it all come together.

The Northwest Passages is the one student publication which is issued periodically. It is a complete student newspaper, written, edited, and laid-out by students. There is a minimal teacher influence in the paper, with the majority of the ideas and aspirations being those of the students.

The staff of the paper, composed almost entirely of underclassmen, did a fine job this year. The bulk of the work, however, fell on the editors. This year's Passages had what was probably its strongest editorial staff yet. The result was a publication of unprecedented quality. Many technical improvements were initiated, and correspondence with other schools was boosted. This was also the first year in which a volume of papers contained five issues.

A great deal of credit must be given to Miss Dennehy, our moderator. She suggested, guided, and offered constructive criticism all the while allowing the staff to have its way as long as it was advantageous to the paper.

The combined effort of the editors, Miss Dennehy, and the staff produced a superior paper for the Northwest community.

Moderator Mrs. Hagearty

National Honor Society and Student Assistance

The coordinated efforts of the National Honor Society and Student Assistance Committee have produced the tutoring room, a new service available to any student wishing help in a subject area.

This year, the National Honor Society had a new moderator. A few weeks after the previous moderator, Mr. Ferri, left to pursue a new career, Mrs. Lorraine Florio, a biology teacher, was appointed to the position. She had been very enthusiastic about the society and has really brought the club together.

The Student Assistance Committee was a new group formed this year by Mrs. Hagearty of the Guidance Department. The committee was designed to help ease new students into the routine and make them part of our community.

Language Clubs

The involvement of the language clubs in Foreign Language Week has come to mean a great deal to this school. Each club portrays the customs and cultures of the country through menus, costumes, and posters.

During the summer of 1980, five students in the French 4 club were able to experience French culture first hand. Spending three weeks living with a family and studying a few hours a day is an experience they will not forget. A week in Paris was the culmination of the trip.

Michele Pernel still won't do windows!

Under the direction of Mr. Daniel Carney, the Drama Club has flourished. Each year, two productions — one play and one musical — are performed by members of the club. These shows bring many people to the school, including students, parents, and alumni

The versatile talents of Duffy Sabelia and Sharon Kristofak have involved them in more than one Northwest production

Bare feet and a big smile are both signs of Sue Pastula's successful performance

The musical talents of Lisa Fleury were an added attraction

In Excelsis Deo

Northwest's music has touched us all through masses, concerts, plays, and football games. The combined efforts of Mrs. Virginia Robinson and Mr. Jesse Corjulo have created musical productions with professional qualities.

People listen appreciatively to the songs of the Glee Club Christmas concert

Singing in unison is a must in order to achieve a professional quality

The advanced girls' chorus dedicated a great deal of time to learning harmonies and melodies

Music Makers

The combined efforts of all the musicians produced great sound

Mr. Corgulo and the band put in a great deal of time and effort to unite their instruments and talents in order to perform so well

S-P-I-R-I-T

School spirit runs rampant when one speaks of the Drill Team, the Magazine Drive Representatives, or the Pep Club. The half-time routines performed by the Drill Team during the basketball games are appreciated greatly by all. The magazine drive representatives' efforts during our annual drive are astronomical and our performance would not be as good without their constant prodding and their great enthusiasm. The Pep Club's posters plastered around the school serve to remind us of upcoming sporting events.

Posters from the Pep Club focus on school happenings

Sports are an important part of every high school, and this is especially true at Northwest Catholic. Male and female athletes from our diverse geographic areas come together to compete with other schools. We take pride in our athletes. It is not a boast to say that our athletes excel individually and collectively. In its first year, our girls' soccer team was undefeated. Our basketball team continues to be among the leaders in the state. We place individuals on the HCC list in nearly every sport. Combined with our class performance on the field is a class act on the stands where spirit is evident at our many games

Pigskin Roundup

The 1980 N.W.C. Football team under coach Don Brewer posted a 5-6 record. Although the record might not show it, the team was never out of any game. Improvements were definitely in stride as the 1980 team bettered its record from a lowly 2-8 last year, to an almost .500 record this year. Much of this acclaim goes to Co-Captains Mark Milligan and Bucky Van Schaack, as they were named to the all H.C.C. football team; while Kevin Werle, Charlie Melanson, and Joe Zinkann also received the all conference honors. Among these recognized athletes were the rest of the seniors who formed the backbone of this team. The other seniors included, Walter Hussey, Marty Adams, Matt Brewer, Ron Clarke, Jim Schiffer, Brendan Grady, Mike Demaio, Dave Amaral, Mike Santos, Jim Sconzo, and Pat Brooks, and Tom Stanwicks. Graduation will surely take a toll on next year's team, but it's not Northwest tradition to give up those challenges that face them.

NORTHWEST'S BEST RUNS AHEAD OF ALL THE REST

The Boys' Cross Country Team, under first year coach Mike Griffin, had an excellent season. They finished with a 9-2 dual meet record, winning all nine in a row. The team placed fourth in class M and qualified for the State Open for the first time since 1976

Bob Deneen, Chris Garcia and Steve Curley consistently lead the team, finishing in a three way tie for first place in four meets. Other senior members were Pete O'Callaghan, Rick May, Tony Dante and Tim Keefe

The highlights of the season came when the Harriers defeated Avon, East Catholic, and St. Paul, all ranked in the top ten of the state

The team should fare well next year returning four of the top seven runners

Lady Harriers Take Course

After an outstanding season under Coach Gary Ruggeri, the Girl's Cross Country team will lose graduating seniors Sheila Walsh, Mary Coffey, Beth Bartus, Lisa Stuart, Patty Lynch, Chris Shea, and Sue Wise. With the loss of many great runners from last year, Coach Ruggeri was surprised at the talent and depth of the new team. Having the largest turnout ever for Cross Country, the team proved to include top finishers in many of the meets. They extended the record in dual meets to 22 before losing to HCC rival East Catholic. Top finishers for the team included Lisa Stuart, Mary Coffey, Kerry Casey, Traisa Schiffer, Tricia Curis, and Carla Bazzano. Coach Ruggeri commented that everyone succeeded in one way or another. He is excited for next year which will probably be a time for building up the team.

Boys' Soccer Builds Up Power

The Boys' Soccer Team at Northwest received much accolade from their opponents as a team dangerously filled with talent and depth. Despite their deceiving record of 3-10-1 the team performed with much skill and die-hard determination. Youth and the inexperience of working together prevented Northwest from defeating more experienced teams. But as proof shows, ability and spirit was far from lacking in this team.

Senior Co-Captain Joel Peterson, Joe Flannery, and junior Pete Peterson received All HCC acknowledgements for their outstanding performances throughout the season. Co-Captain Keith Lysak also achieved All HCC honors, respectively. The other seniors, Jeff Quinn, Joe Budanaro, as well as Joel, Joe, and Keith showed leadership and kept the morale of the team high. Their talent will be truly missed, but time and experience have put Northwest closer to that unprecedented goal — strong HCC contenders. Much praise should be directed toward their coach Mr. Craig Tanner. He shaped his team into a hard working soccer club... the future "powerhouse" from Northwest Catholic.

SOCCER'S CINDERELLA STORY

A new door was kicked open this fall as the Northwest Girls Soccer team accomplished those tasks which were doubted by many. Being a young and inexperienced team, the odds were set against them. However, the girls put an end to that gambler's philosophy. Coming off the season opener with a tie, the powerful Indians were simply not satisfied. Their drive and determination made them thirsty for a win... and many wins it was.

In their sixteen game season, each of their opponents fell victim to Northwest's solid balanced attack. Their sticky defense allowed eleven goals the whole season, and registered five shutouts. Teamwork and hustle were the name of the game for our girls who defeated teams more experienced than themselves. With much help from the midfielders, the front line trampled over the helpless defenses. They averaged four goals a game giving the opposing netminder quite a workout.

Fate, however, got the best of this young team. Winning the first game of the State Tournament against Housatonic Valley meant that Northwest would go against a very strong Simsbury team. Before bowing to them 3-1, the intensity of the game was never lost. Saddened by this tragic ending, the girls finally realized their achievements and that no other Girls Soccer team at Northwest would ever compare to this one of 1980. Mr. Ed Noonan, a coach full of patience most of all, instilled in his players the confidence and the will to become a winning team.

The 1980 Girls Soccer Roster included Seniors — Holly O'Brien, Jeanne Murray, Patty Folia, and Co-Captains Erin O'Brien and Karen Rodgers. Juniors — Nancy Flaherty, Nora O'Brien, Trish Murphy, Nancy Hayes, Kathy Stvall, Mary Kay Tierney, Julie Klim, Sophomores — Jenny Long, Hope Kelley, Denise Lysak, Dawn Lysak, Barb Kreiger, Lauren Casey, Chris Graft, Diane Rossini, and Ellen Daly, and Kathy Lisenvick. Freshmen — Susan Rodgers and Carey O'Brien. This was the making of a truly great team.

N.W.C. Boys' Basketball Bounces Back

Despite the odds that were against them after Bailey, Brown, and Cazette graduated, the 1980-81 Boys' Basketball Team showed many people what determination was all about. Starting off the season with four straight victories, the Indians began their climb up the long and hard ladder. Confidence and a lot of hustle put the Indians way above their own expectations winning 13 of their 19 game schedule. Co-captains Ulysses Garcia and Darryl Thompson and the rest of the senior contingent consisting of Tom Stewart, Mike Miazga, Charlie Verurth, and Jim Farley provided strength for the team. Of course these players will surely be missed next year. Praised for his season's play, Ulysses Garcia, the team's star guard, who reached a very honorable milestone in his basketball career at N.W.C. He 100, was added to the list of basketball giants who achieved the 1000 point mark.

The Indians were forever out to prove themselves showing others that N.W.C. basketball was in a class all by itself. In the H.C.C. Tournament, their plans were somewhat altered. Coming off a nail-biting victory over East Catholic, the Indians faced arch-rival South Catholic. Beating them twice in the regular season it would seem another victory was in store. However history didn't repeat itself for the third time. Stubbornly, the Indians took home second place. Their achievements this year are to be herald. Defying the odds, Northwest bounced back into the spotlight of the Winners' Circle. Once again around the state basketball scene, the Indians' season was a success. Any coach would love to play

Mrs. O'Rourke and her talented basketball team have once again given their competition a taste of what it means to lose big. Tearing apart teams throughout their 19 game regular season, the Indians have provided Northwest Catholic with a winning tradition. Rounding out the regular season 18-1, the Indians headed for the conference Tournament with no doubts of who was truly number one. Defeating East Catholic and their old nemesis, South Catholic, the Indians were crowned the Hartford County Conference Champions.

Determination, dedication, and down-right talent surrounded this close-knit team. An awesome balanced attack threatened their opponents and sent them crawling back to their benches. Their quickness and strangling defense perplexed their victims and left the spectators in amazement. By raising her team to a high caliber level of basketball, Mrs. O'Rourke has placed the girls' team on a pedestal where praise and respect are directed. Depth and leadership are far from lacking in the girls' team, as the seniors provided their teammates with a strong backbone of experience. Erin O'Brien, Mary Teresa Mulshine, Patty Lynch, and Karen Rodgers make up the senior squad.

Entering into the State Tournament, the Indians demolished St. Bernard and Masuk. Averaging 72 and 73 points in the State games, the girls' hot hands showed no mercy to their opponents.

The intensity on the face of Mary Theresa Mulshine explains why Coach O'Rourke's job was made easier.

Northwest's Record-Setting Team

A note of worthy recognition should be directed to Ms. Rose Stepnick and her Junior Varsity Basketball Team. The girls, for the second consecutive year, recorded a perfect 19-0 season. Their continual domination over their opponents secured them the number one position in the conference. Throughout their nineteen game season, the Indians thwarted their enemies with tenacious defense and a high-scoring offense. The team was packed with talent as each player contributed to its winning cause. The only competition that challenged the Indians was South Catholic. Winning by a very slim margin, the Northwest team prevented their record from being scarred. Their perfect slate set a Northwest record of the only team to remain undefeated for two years. They compiled a record of 36-0. Successful was the word to describe this talented team.

First Ever State Champs

The Indoor Track Team roared through an extremely successful dual meet schedule, finishing 8-3 against some of the best teams in the state. They followed up the regular season with the Class "S" State Championship. The championship was the first ever for a Northwest Indoor Track Team.

Coached by Mr. Griffin and led by co-captains Bob Deneen and David Amaral, the team broke fifteen school records. Seniors Bob Deneen, Dave Amaral, Mike DeMaio, Jim Schiffer, Mike Levine, and Chris Garcia all turned in fine efforts. The future looks good as well, with Rich and Mike Santos, Steve Curley, Joe Young, Bob Waters, and Willie Dowden returning next year.

Because of their performance in the Class "S" State Championships, Jim Schiffer, Mike DeMaio, Rich and Mike Santos, and the 4x200 relay team consisting of Mike DeMaio, Dave Amaral, Mike Levine, and Joe Young were invited to the state open held March 20 at UCONN.

THE YOUNG AT HEART

It is not the years that count, but the wisdom that comes with age. It is not the wrinkles that count, but the experiences that have shaped the soul. It is not the physical strength that counts, but the inner resilience that allows one to face the challenges of life with a smile. It is not the youth that counts, but the heart that remains young at heart. For it is the heart that is the true measure of a person's age. And it is the heart that is the true measure of a person's worth. For it is the heart that is the true measure of a person's love. And it is the heart that is the true measure of a person's life.

Lately it's occurred to me what a long strange trip it's been
- Grateful Dead

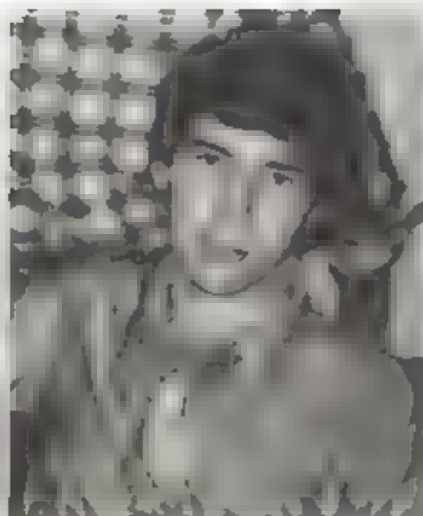

And the little girl who
The daughter of the people
And the young mothers

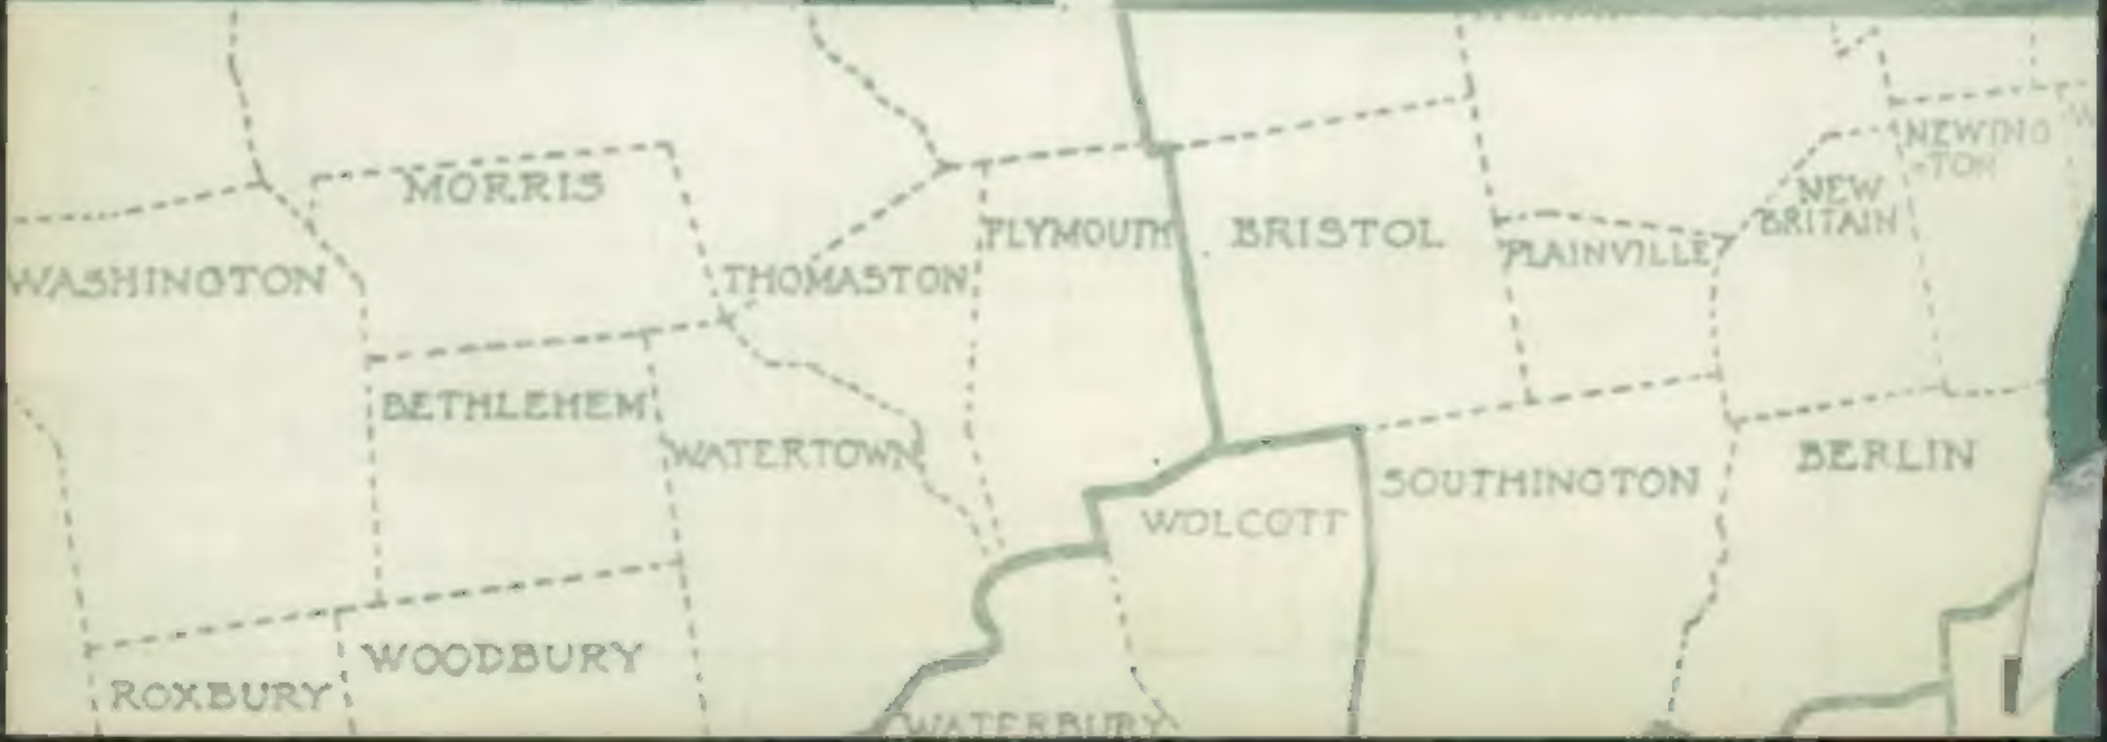

Sometimes wonder
If it would be so bad
To take a transparent, and
And capture what we were

Now, it's hard to matter
Somebody's right
Somebody's right
Somebody's right
Somebody's right
Somebody's right
Somebody's right
Somebody's right

Lisa,
Before I say anything, I want to say thank-you and I have been friends for a long time, and through all the ups and downs we have experienced together - I will always be one of the best friends I ever had. Now, I'm not saying good-bye, just, until I see you next. I probably won't see you for a few months at a time. We have shared some fantastic and lots of secrets at a moments. There was a lot of trust and you've shared some personal and I am really glad that we became as close as we did. I also want to say that I am super-proud that you're going to Notre Dame. I know you deserve everything that you have earned. So - when you get out there - knock 'em dead! Your yearbook quote says that a friend is someone who knows all about you - but likes you anyway. And that's what I consider you. You're my friend also for always being there when I needed you most. Thank you. Thanks all about you - who knows all about me. And I agreed, or not, was always valued. But anyway - good luck Always - and definitely keep in touch - Take care - Love Always - Cindy
